Grand Knight Vivat Jesus!

Those of you who are scholars of Latin will surely recognize the greeting, Vivat Jesus! And, if you attended the K of C state convention you would have heard this phrase more than once. As an opening a salutation, a verbal punctuation to a speech, or an ending to emails, it is a code term for Long Live Jesus! Cheers for Jesus! Hurray Jesus! On-line The Latin translation software provides cryptic results for vivat : Animus, vivo, vixit are all Latin equivalents. But like you, my Latin is a little rusty, and I am a little leery of catch phrases and ditties that leak into to become conversational bumper stickers. OK, here it is the point: When you say it, mean it! Don't lower your savior to a cliché and be sure to live the living word,

Vivat Jesus!
